

Imaging

Imaging Overview

Imaging is the process of creating a xerographic image on the photoreceptor by exposing it with light. To accomplish this the machine uses a laser Raster Output Scanner (ROS) as the light source. Depending on the machine configuration, the input to the laser scanner can come from two sources, a Digital Front End (DFE) or an internally scanned document.

